THE CALIFORNIA LOTTERIES

The authorities of California are being called upon to enforce the anti-lottery laws. The Sacramento Bee charges the officials with practically collecting a license from the lotteries by fining the dealers fifty dollars a week and turning the money into the city treasury. The law says they should be fined $300 but the courts decline to do this for the simple reason that such heavy fines would break up the lotteries and the city would lose a very profitable source of revenue.

In other words the California authorities believe in licensing lotteries by the round about, half hearted way but if any one was to advocate licensing them straight and collecting the revenue the California authorities would oppose such a proposition "on moral grounds."

They occasionally get a spasm of morality and break up a lottery but they take good care not to break up any of the lottery concerns.

Metzger's lottery is one of the correct thing in California. It is so very well thought of in Nevada.

Nevada continues to have two representatives in the U. S. Senate although it is admitted to day to have less density of population than any State in the Union.—Chicago Tribune.

The above is much nearer the truth than the Tribune generally gets. One seldom finds a really dense person in the entire population of Nevada. The densest party ever found in the entire State is the Tribune telegraph correspondent at Goldfields who wired his paper on February 1st that there was talk of a railroad being built from Tonopah to Goldfield. The road had been in operation several months but the Tribune correspondent had not found it out yet.

The Western Pacific is still on the turf, notwithstanding the adverse decision of Judge Morrow in its suit against the Southern Pacific. Pending an appeal from its decision the Western Pacific will make no change in its plans at Oakland. Should the decision be affirmed some other means of reaching deep water will be found. It may reach deep water, far out from the bay shore, from some point on the Berkeley or Alameda water front, if not from Oakland. There can be no doubt but what it will master all needed terminal facilities by day, although they may not be quite as advantageous as those denied it by Judge Morrow's decision.

An agreement is reported as having been reached at the Algeciras conference though the terms are not definitely stated. That looks rather ominous for poor old Morocco.
